GOTHAM EMERGES FROM ISOLATION

Railroad Service Improved; Wire Communication Belter

WORST STORM IN MANY YEARS

Metropolis Now Endangered by Flames and Firemen Patrol Beats as Was Custom in Colonial Days.

New York, March 2.—The record storm for a quarter of a century has driven seaward after paralyzing railroad service, ruining wire communications and destroying public and private business.

The weather man believes that winter's grip is broken and tells us that warmer temperatures and rain are on the way.

The disappearing blizzard has left four boroughs at the mercy of fire, destroying or deadening the fire alarm signals in Brooklyn, Richmond, Queens and the Bronx, where firemen are patrolling beats as they used to do in New Amsterdam 250 years ago.
In Manhattan only is the system in working order.

Four men were killed by trains while shoveling snow from the tracks, two being swept from the trestle over Jamaica bay. A man was found frozen to death at Hackensack, N. J. He hands covered his ears and he had turned his back to the wind as it swept from the north. He appeared to have lost his way in the storm.

As regards the destruction of railroad service which was more general and complete than operating officials ever remembered the situation has improved.

The Pennsylvania and the Lehigh Valley resumed through service and promised, as did all the other roads, a betterment of local service. The New York Central and New Haven reported mitigated conditions.

Nothing approaching the demolition of telegraph and telephone service was ever known. In this city, with its conduits and protected cables, the phone annoyance was trivial, but in New Jersey and Long Island the conditions could hardly have been worse.

Unaccountable miles of telegraph and telephone wires were useless.
Only Newark could be reached by telegraph from this city. The only direct service to Washington and the west for newspapers or commercial use was by means of one underground system of wires.

The Postal Telegraph company in order to reach the capital flashed along this remarkable route: To Albany, to Montreal, to Detroit, to Chicago, to St. Louis, to Birmingham, to Augusta, to Atlanta, to Richmond, to Washington.

Philadelphia Roughly Used.

Philadelphia, March 2.—Philadelphia was snowbound. Railroad service to all directions was crippled and in some cases, particularly to New York, was discontinued. Telegraphic communication was practically cut off.
The blizzard was the most disastrous since February, 1902. The actual snowfall was about seven inches, but in the suburbs it was much heavier and the high winds piled it up high.

Seven persons are dead as a result of the storm. A motorman was crushed to death between two trolley cars, a stevedore fell into the hold of a ship, four men and a woman died on the street and numerous more or less serious accidents are reported from all sections of the city.

A portion of the brick wall of the Phillies' ball park a hundred feet long was blown down. In the northeastern part of the city several houses were blown down. These were untenanted, however, and no one was injured.

Reports from all points up state as far as Williamsport tell of great havoc wrought. Houses were blown down and unroofed and many barns were destroyed.

A train on the Pennsylvania became stalled this side of Trenton. At daybreak the passengers discovered they were marooned opposite a farm house.
A raid was made on the farmer who when he learned of their plight carried forty gallons of milk and other provisions to the train and fed the women and children. He declined any remuneration.

WEATHER A BARRIER

New Business Restricted in Many Sections of Country.

Dun's Review of Trade says this week:

"Severe storms restricted new business in many sections of the country this week and caused delay in making deliveries on old orders. The intense cold and heavy snowfall stimulated activity in seasonal merchandise at retail, but the interruption to general trade was sufficient to retard distribution considerably. Traffic blockades hampered freight movements and reduced receipts resulted in higher prices for various food products.

"While weather conditions had a tendency to check progress in commercial and industrial channels reports from the leading centers continue optimistic in tone. Best news emanated from those lines benefiting by low temperatures, notably heavy weight apparel, footwear and fuel."

CHANGES NAME; STARTS NEW LIFE

Mrs. Edwards Promises to Redeem Her Past

LIVING NEAR PHILADELPHIA

Mrs. Edwards Desires No Notoriety and Pleads That Her Place of Seclusion Be Not Told—Gives Thanks.

In the outskirts of Philadelphia Mrs.
Kate Edwards, released from prison after thirteen years' incarceration for murder, is living in seclusion at the home of one of the numerous women who have been working for years to gain liberty for her.

When she left the jail in Berks county Mrs. Edwards took on a new name which she says she will retain for the rest of her life.

"Don't tell them where I am," she said pitifully. "Don't tell anyone where I am. I am not Kate Edwards any more. She is dead and buried. I have left her behind—with all the horror and the suffering. I just want to start again. I never knew what life was, or what human kindness was, until I was put in jail."

The copy of a letter for the newspapers prepared by Mrs. Edwards as-isted by her attorneys follows:

"To the newspapers of the country, and the hundreds of thousands of persons who have stood by me in the ordeal of my trial and imprisonment:
"Through your efforts, the kindness of the board of pardons and the grace of the commonwealth, I renew my place in the world as a free woman. To all who have befriended me I offer my heartfelt thanks. I wish them God speed. I shall, by living a life of purity, endeavor to redeem the past.
I assure you I shall not do anything to betray your confidence. I pass out of seclusion and it is my desire that I pass into seclusion."

Mrs. Edwards had been in the shadow of the gallows for nearly thirteen years for the killing of her husband and was released from the Berks county jail under a pardon granted by Governor Tener.

Convicted of first degree murder in 1901 she was sentenced to be hanged, but four governors declined to fix a day for her execution. After her conviction petitions were circulated in many parts of the country and were signed by thousands of women protesting against the execution of one of their sex.

CONGRESS

Criticism For Parcel Post.

During the debate on an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill in the senate Senator Bristow of Kansas made an attack on the way the parcel post law is being administered.

The amendment that Senator Bristow supported provides that the present zone arrangement be not disturbed by the postmaster general unless he is given authority.

The senator pointed out many remarkable disparities under the system of administering the law between the cost of transporting parcels of the same weight for longer and shorter hauls.

He showed that in Virginia it would cost as much to convey a parcel from Staunton to another point thirteen miles away as it would cost to carry the same parcel from Washington to the same destination.

"If the bill had been actually drawn by the big mail order houses," said the senator from Kansas, "it could not have more nearly met the requirements of these concerns. As administered they enjoy remarkable favors in the way of transportation."

Ohioan May Go to Russia.

Senator Pomerene of Ohio expressed the opinion that Representative W. C.
Sharp of Elvira, O., would be appointed ambassador to Russia. Mr. Sharp is one of the wealthiest members of congress from Ohio and is said to have amassed about $2,000,000 from the manufacturing business and is not averse to entering the diplomatic service.

The only obstacle that appears in the way of the appointment is the attitude of Governor Cox of Ohio, between whom and Representative Sharp there has been a sharp political rivalry and some bad feeling. Senator Pom-erene was asked by the president whether the appointment of Mr. Sharp as ambassador would be offensive to Governor Cox. The senator stated that in his opinion it would not, but admitted that he had not communicated with the governor.

Former Senator Teller Dies.

Henry Moore Teller, who was secretary of the interior in President Arthur's cabinet and for more than thirty years United States senator from Colorado, died in Denver at the home of his daughter, Mrs. G. E. Tyler. Senator Teller was eighty-four years old and had been ill two years.

Husband and Wife Die Setting Nets.

Harry Blazer and his wife were drowned and three of his brothers had narrow escapes when they were all thrown into the Susquehanna river at Selins Grove, Pa., while setting nets through the ice.

PUNISHMENT OF SLAYERS ASKED

Secretary Bryan Informs Huerta of Vergara's Death

BENTON PROBE IS STARTED

English Consul Perceval Begins Examination of Witnesses at Border.
Villa Offers Special Train For Party.

Two hours' discussion of the Mexican situation in all its phases by President Wilson and his cabinet developed a unanimity of opinion that the time had not yet arrived for any change in the policy of the Washington government.

Though reserving judgment on the facts surrounding the execution of William S. Benton, British subject, the president and his cabinet regarded as of serious moment the hanging by Mexican federalists of Clemente Vergara, an American citizen.

Immediately after the meeting Secretary Bryan cabled Charge O'Shaughnessy to demand of the Huerta government the punishment of those responsible for Vergara's death.

Representative Mondell, Republican, of Wyoming, in a vigorous attack on the Mexican policy in the house predicted that in the event of the Con-stitutionalists overthrowing Huerta there would follow a "reign of rapine, plunder and murder" that would spread over all Mexico.

"The recent cold-blooded murder or barbarous execution, whichever it may prove to have been, of Ranchman Benton at Juarez," Mondell declared, "has served to throw a sinister light on the character of the Constitutionalist commander of the north, but neither a surprise nor revelation to those who have been following developments in northern Mexico."

Perceval Begins Investigation.

Charles Arthur Perceval, British consul at Galveston, began the probe of the death of W. S. Benton at the hands of the Mexican rebels under General Villa.

The consul is conducting the investigation privately and examining witnesses able to throw any light upon the last visit of Benton to Juarez and the man's character, temper, nationality, relations with federals and rebels, etc.

George B. Carothers, acting as confidential agent of Secretary Bryan in negotiations with Villa, is assisting Mr. Perceval.

DISREGARDED RULES OF SEA

Captain Berry Makes Further Admissions About Collision.

Captain Osmyr Berry of the steamship Nantucket admitted at his trial in Philadelphia that he had broken an international navigation rule in running his ship at full speed in a fog just before hitting the steamer Monroe. Not only had he violated an international rule, he conceded, but in addition he had disregarded a law of his own in running at full speed when he could see only a quarter of a mile ahead of his ship.

The skipper admitted that only once while he was master on the Nantucket had there been a lifeboat drill in which the boats' keels touched the water.

He admitted that if he had stopped his engines on hearing the fog signal from the Monroe and "proceeded cautiously," as the navigation laws require, there would have been no collision. Later, however, he became confused and insisted that if he had slowed down to half speed the collision would have occurred just the same.

ORDERED TO QUIT CLUBS

Steel Corporation Warns Its Employees

About Liquor Drinking.
Liquor and liquor drinkers are under the ban at the various plants of the American Sheet and Tinplate company.

Thousands of employees in the company's plants in Leechburg, Hyde Park, New Kensington and Vandergrift have been notified that they must withdraw from fraternal organizations which maintain sideboards or cease to be employees. Employees also are prohibited from signing applications of persons seeking liquor licenses.

The men have not taken kindly to the new order as they say it is a sharp curtailment of their personal liberties. More than 6,000 men are affected in this region.

Members of the Benevolent Protective Order of Elks in Vandergrift called a meeting for tomorrow afternoon to take action on the new order.

SEARCHES FOR HOBO

Wealthy Oil Man Wants to Pay Him
For Rheumatism Cure.

An unidentified tramp will be made independent for life if A. D. Nelson of New Martinsville, W. Va., a wealthy oil operator, can find him.

The tramp stopped at the Nelson home last summer and asked for something to eat. He was given a few odd jobs and remained about the place for several days. At that time Nelson was crippled with rheumatism. The tramp cut a pair of inner soles from soft copper for Nelson's shoes. In a week Nelson was cured, he says.
